Appeal for Flood Relief in Chitrakoot

Dear Friends,

Chitrakoot has been struck by the most severe and devastating flood in its history. The region has suffered extensive damage, and the lives of many families have been severely disrupted. With their homes, livelihoods, and essential daily necessities engulfed by the floodwaters, these families are facing extremely difficult circumstances. In this hour of crisis, the affected families urgently require food, clothing, medicines, clean drinking water, and other essential supplies. Deendayal Research Institute has always worked with the resolve to extend assistance to the last person in society. Today, there is a need for us to come together to stand by flood-affected families and contribute to restoring normalcy to their lives. To this end, the Institute has already initiated work at the local level with the support of the community.

Severe floods have also caused extensive damage to buildings, furniture, equipment, and other assets across the Institute's various campuses; facilities such as Siyaram Kutir, Panchvati, Alpahar, the Dental Unit, Krishnadevi Vanvasi Balika Vidyalaya, and the Krishi Vigyan Kendra have suffered significant infrastructural loss. There is an urgent need for comprehensive reconstruction to make these centers operational again.

We, therefore, earnestly appeal to you all to contribute according to your capacity and to encourage capable individuals within your network to also support this noble cause.

Even a small contribution from you can provide immense support. Every contribution you make is invaluable.
